This is a Command Line-based software for parsing SQL code. It can parse SQL code into different formats such as HTML, text, XML, and so on. You can format all SQL statements, SQL comments, and SQL codes into any format you want. Besides the five normal formats mentioned above, sqlCodeFormatter offers two other custom formats that let you format into formats that you are not familiar with. These custom formats are called 2D (2-Dimensional) HTML and HTML5.

sqlCodeFormatter 2D HTML: It is a compact format that does not use a table. It also has the ability to use “real” and “fake” table tags.

sqlCodeFormatter HTML5: It has many interesting features. It is a compact HTML format, and it supports CSS 3. It also comes with the ability to show tables as lists, text as paragraphs, etc. For users who prefer to use a GUI instead of a CLI, the sqlCodeFormatter GUI is available. This one is made available in three versions: Lite, Full and Pro. A few more features can be found in the PRO version. sqlCodeFormatter License: You can download sqlCodeFormatter for free. Using sqlCodeFormatter for formatting SQL code: To use this software, you need to have a Command Line. Linux and Windows users can download it from their respective package managers. Mac users can download it from this link. Open Command Line/Terminal. In the Command Line/Terminal window, type the following commands: Press Enter. The SQL code you want to format should be in the currently open Command Line/Terminal window. sqlCodeFormatter -l | grep '-l' This will list all the options that are available in the software. Press Enter. Open a file by clicking the file button. If you are using Linux or Windows, you can open the file using the file manager. In the Windows, right-click on the file and click Open with Windows Explorer. If you are using Mac, you can double-click on the file. In the opened file, find the SQL statements you want to format and press Enter. You should see a dialog box which will ask you what format you want to format the SQL code into. Select the format you want. In the next

SQL Code Formatter is a textformatting tool for SQL code. It provides you the capability to format/collapse SQL code based on the indentations in the SQL code itself.
You can use SQL Code Formatter to quickly format your SQL code snippets.
How does SQL Code Formatter works?
SQL Code Formatter was developed based on the fact that SQL snippets usually don't have any indentations and that SQL code should be formatted
before it can be used. Feature summary:

SQL Code Formatter can be used to format the following SQL code forms,

SELECT (SELECT... FROM...)
SELECT (SELECT... FROM...)
SELECT (SELECT... FROM...) AS
SELECT (SELECT... FROM...) DESC
SELECT (SELECT... FROM...) DESC
SELECT (SELECT... FROM...) AS
DELETE (SELECT... FROM...)
DELETE (SELECT... FROM...)
INSERT INTO (SELECT... FROM...)
INSERT INTO (SELECT... FROM...)
INSERT INTO (SELECT... FROM...)
