The woman, believed to be aged in her 30s, was found with gunshot wounds when neighbours raised the alarm shortly after 8am on Friday. Police have launched a murder investigation but are not seeking any suspects. The Metropolitan police said officers were called to a "spacious semi-detached house" in the Elephant and Castle area of the capital on Thursday, and that an incident room was being set up. Police said that the victim, a female, had been living in the house for several years and that no arrests had been made. An hour after the shooting, Scotland Yard said: "Police were called at 8.08am to Weymouth Street, SE1. Officers and the London Ambulance Service attended. One woman was found on the property. The woman was pronounced dead at the scene. "Detectives from the Homicide and Major Crime Command have been informed and they are leading the investigation. There are no suspects." Neighbour Russell Sharples, 52, said he was taking the garbage out when he noticed something was wrong. "I walked around the corner just to see what was going on and I could see the door of this house was open. I went in and came face-to-face with a lady," he said. "I was talking to the police when I heard gunfire. I ran back inside and saw a body on the stairs. I didn't even know what the situation was. I just felt sick." Two police vans were parked outside the house, and neighbours said they heard an argument and shouts of "help". A 58-year-old man at a house across the road said: "I heard about two gunshots, one after the other. I saw the lady who had been shot. "I think she had been upstairs. I heard shouting and banging. When I first heard the shots
